ALBERTA SCHOOL FAIRS

The school fair functions in many ways for the betterment of agriculture and the community. It introduces the best varieties of vegetables, flowers, grains, incites a co-operative spirit between the teachers, parents, children and the different schools in the community, brings the business men and farmers together in community work, and above all the school fair is the most potent agency in agricultural education in that it is creating an interest in agriculture in the minds of our youth and so is doing much to help solve one of our great national problems, i.e., to keep our boys and girls on the farms and prevent the "cityward" movement, which is no longer a menace, but a real danger to our young nation.

The school fair tends to break down the greatest of all hindrances to educational advancement—public indifference. It has undergone a severe testing and has proven to be a most potent factor in bringing the school and home into closer relationship and more sympathetic co-operation.

The co-operation of the whole community is necessary to a continual success in school fair work, but the active interest and sympathetic attention of the teacher are absolutely essential if the true educational value of the work is to be conserved.

And what does the school fair mean to the children? Without doubt it is the best day of the year in their day, for weeks and months they have been preparing their exhibits from the Eric von Stroheim says: "They call me 'The Satan of the Screen.' That's because, in 'Blind Husband's' I play a polished villain in the only way a villain should be played—to make you hate him. But if you are a woman, I don't think you'll hate me—you'll only be fascinated—because I know so much about you. You'll know that I know how to show alive when they're neglected—how to win their affections—how to place them where they'd finally be at my mercy. And though you'll stoutly deny the wife in 'Blind Husband's' is to blame, you'll sympathize with her longing for love and you'll lay it all at her husband's door—and mine. If you don't, you're a very unusual woman—just as 'Blind Husband's' is a very unusual photoplay. Come and see." Rex Theater next Friday and Saturday.

garden and the great outdoors. They have been practicing spelling, reading, singing, and at last everything is ready for the fair. With happy faces, shining eyes and busy tongues they are driven in decorated wagons, huggies, democrats and autos to the chosen center. While the judging of exhibits is in progress, the athletic contests are the center of attraction, and this seems to attract the pupils from one school district to those of another, and for the rest of the day there are no strangers.

What a scene! One little fellow discovers he has a prize for his collection of weeds. His eyes sparkle with excitement and he exclaims: "Oh look! Where is mother? He must show mother, and then with justifiable pride, mother's eyes brighten too, and together they continue the search for more delightful surprises.

The foreign problem, too, is met successfully. One gentleman, who came to Canada years ago from Austria and who now possesses a good Canadian home and prosperous farm, but whose knowledge of English was still very meagre, was asked his opinion of it all. "Fine," he said, "good work, good schools, good teachers. My boy speaks English good now, good country, good everything. No further comment is necessary."

The school fair brings to the foreign children an opportunity which is almost unique of acquiring in the most pleasant way a knowledge and understanding of races other than their own. This cannot fail to have an influence on the parents and must contribute much to the making of the Canadian nation of the future.

Another splendid feature of the school fair is that it is child dependent for its success and support upon local enthusiasm and initiative.

Business men and public spirited citizens are beginning to recognize in the movement a need and promising idea and are working together for its promotion. Thus we find bankers willing to finance the livestock end of the fair, accepting a promise to pay, on the part of the boy making the loan, as the sole security. The business training and the contact with the business men brought about in this way cannot be too highly valued for comprehension of business affairs, on the part of the young people engaging in these activities.

The value of the work of the children will easily be realized. No boy or girl can carry on a project lasting several months and faithfully carry out all that pertains to it without having interest stimulated to a high degree. He or she cannot plough and prepare the soil, or care for the poultry, pigs, calf or colt, or make a garment or bake a loaf of bread, go through the process of canning fruit and vegetables, or select seeds and fertilizers, combat insects and diseases, or clean up the back yard prior to gardening operations, without learning to take bravely discouragements, due to climate, or other causes, without recognizing the need of co-operative relationships; without learning to respect the rights of others, and without learning lessons in community work. They will be spurred on by the competitive spirit, and will be more keen and observant.

Boys and girls learn to work, to observe, to discriminate, to cooperate, to describe what they do; they learn business methods, they learn to weigh and balance things according to real values; they are encouraged to read and discuss; they are broadened by their contact with others, they develop initiative and judgment, they come to the age of eighteen or nineteen, able to do something with a knowledge of how and confidence that they can do it.

Although there will be sixteen school fairs held in southern Alberta alone this year and approximately five thousand children will take part, the school fairs work is only in its initial stages in Alberta and the future has tremendous possibilities. The key to success is community co-operation.

A. McConkey, B.S.A., superintendent of the southern Alberta school fairs, is a very enthusiastic and efficient organizer and has already accomplished much toward making this year's fairs a success.

Clean Up!

Around about this time of the year it is customary for the housewife to indulge in her annual spring house cleaning. It has become the usual procedure, too, for the provincial and municipal fire prevention and health authorities to declare "Clean-up" days of weeks. The object is, of course, to focus public attention upon the importance of organized community as well as individual effort being devoted to the task of collecting and destroying the refuse and rubbish which always accumulates around the house and other buildings during the severe winter months.

It is important that this work be attended to for many reasons. First, there is the question of health to be considered. The accumulation of dirt, filth and waste material of various kinds develop from such accumulations, not only the greatest of all carriers of disease, but their chief breeding places in filth and rubbish. A general spring cleaning is one of the best health measures that can be taken in any home or community. The removal of the dust and dirt resulting from the sealing up of houses and offices during the cold winter months is also a protective measure from mites and insects whose destructive activities are too well known to even require mention.

A general spring clean-up is important also from the standpoint of fire protection. Many people who exercise care in regard to the accumulation of filth and rubbish which might have an adverse effect on health, and as the breeding places of germs and insects of many kinds, neglect to collect and remove other kinds of rubbish which, while not dangerous from these standpoints, are the cause of fires which, on too frequent a result in serious conflagrations with consequent loss of valuable property and even more valuable lives.

"Clean-up" days or weeks have been customarily observed in cities and larger towns, and the municipal authorities co-operate with the individual citizen in city-wide and town-wide house cleaning. The public health is thereby promoted, a larger measure of security from fire is provided, and the whole community made much neater and more attractive, leading inevitably to greater civic pride and to the carrying out of other improvements, such as painting, laying out lawns and gardens, and general home and city betterment.

Although such organized co-operative effort is not possible in the rural portions of the West, it is none the less important that the same work should be carried out by the farmer and stock raiser, and the united efforts of all members of the family and the land held directed to a general farm clean-up, not only around the house and the outbuilding. The removal of accumulated rubbish will not only improve the appearance of the place, but it may easily be the direct cause of preventing sickness and loss by fire. Canada's fire loss annually is simply stupendous; it is the highest per capita of any country in the world. It amounts, on an average, to over $250,000 a year, or at the rate of $800,000 a year. According to statistics compiled by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 66 percent of all fires start from preventable causes, and 90 percent of unknown origin are, it is believed, also largely from preventable causes. This heavy fire loss forces insurance companies to charge extremely heavy premiums for fire insurance, thus those innocent people who take all possible precautions are made to suffer loss because of the carelessness of others.

Addressing a recent meeting of the Canadian National Safety League, one speaker declared that experience has shown that cleanliness about any institution would be more to prevent fires than any other one thing. The speaker, however, he declared, was a source of constant danger.

Safety First: An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; it is better to be sure than sorry—of these old adages and scores of others of this import apply to the question of a general spring clean-up and the removal of rubbish and waste of all description. Better still, of course, is never to allow it to accumulate, but under certain conditions this is not wholly possible during the winter. There should, however, in their own individual and even selfish interests, be a general response by all people to the proclamations issued by the provincial governments of the West. "Clean-up" days are proclaimed to persist until that date, but individual and community benevolence should not be deferred beyond the winter months.

Grain Stocks in Elevators

Western Country Elevators Show a Decrease in All Grains

According to returns received at the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, for the week ended April 23, 1920, the quantity of wheat and oats in store at the different public elevators throughout Canada is less than last week by 750,000 bushels for wheat and 737,000 bushels for oats. Barley shows a small increase of some 5,660 bushels. Briefly the situation is as follows:

Western country elevators show a decrease in all grains of 2,553,333 bushels, wheat and oats making up the largest part, namely 2,435,117 bushels.

In the public terminal elevators an increase is shown of 1,666,280 bushels, wheat and oats make up the largest part, namely, 1,534,135 bushels.

An increase is shown in wheat of one, 113,857 bushels in the private terminal elevators, Port William and Port Arthur the same may be said of the interior terminal elevators, which show an increase of 121,183 bushels, while 115,995 bushels less oats are in store.

In the public elevators in the East, a decrease is noted, caused by heavy shipments from the seaboard ports, while the lake port elevators await the arrival of ships from Port William and Port Arthur; the decrease amounts to, wheat, 44,310 bushels; oats, 46,075 bushels; barley, 41,934 bushels.

The United States Atlantic seaboard ports elevators at Portland and Baltimore show a decrease of 20,000 bushels of wheat; while oats, barley and fax remain unchanged.

An increase of 21,000 bushels of wheat, oats and barley is reported for the week ended April 23, compared to 110, while fax, rye and screening indicate a decrease of 10,000 bushels. 64 percent of wheat graded No. 1 Minnesota and better.

HEART SO BAD WAS NOT SAFE TO LEAVE HER ALONE

Miss Eva F. Gattano, Kitchener, Ont., writes: "I feel that I must write and tell you of the benefit I have received from your Heart and Nerve Pills. I was very sick and nervous, and taken terribly bad with my heart, nerves and fainting spells, and I was in bed for about six months. I doctored with two different doctors and could get no better. At the last I decided to try your Heart and Nerve Pills, and I feel that I should be so glad to receive but little benefit from them. One of the medicine advertisements of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I decided to try them, and before I had taken more than two boxes I could see they were helping me. I have taken about ten boxes, and am almost cured of those terrible spells. I sincerely feel that your medicine has proved a blessing to me, and I advise any one troubled with Heart and Nerve Pills to get your Heart and Nerve Pills. I am confident they will find relief."

Sheep Ranchers For a B.C.

The owners of an area bounding 10,000 acres in the Coast Range and Stuart Lake districts in B.C., have sold out to a party of 12 cattle ranchers who will run sheep there. A Manitoba rancher has bought 3,200 acres near Stuart Lake and will have an option on 5,000 additional acres, while a Victoria rancher recently bought 2,500 acres in the Nicola River in the south series. An influx of British ranchers is expected into the province, with a view to settlement, being granted the agricultural colonies at Zurich. They are mainly interested in the dairy business.

Irrigation at Medicine Hat

Maintain Soil Productivity

A Moral Duty to Perform As Regards Our Farms

Maintaining the soil's productive power is not only a duty that we owe to ourselves, but a duty to posterity. We have no right to take from posterity the means of subsistence.

The farmer of today who does his duty by his farm must pass it to his successor in a more fertile condition than that in which he received it. The man who does not do this robs posterity, and it is just as much a crime to rob future generations as it is to rob those who are living on the earth today.

Therefore in agriculture we have a moral duty to perform which we must not forget; and that is the duty which we owe to those who are to come after us.

Let us then, as farmers, be to it that the fields, which we till shall be that they pass from our hands, better producers of wealth than when we received them.—Furness and Biveller.

One Airplane Record

One of the Harbinger flying machines carried out over 300 bombing raids during the war without a single machine being lost, due to engine failure or defects in the aeroplane. It is also a matter of military record that many of the machines on these bombing raids would be equipped with machine guns, and with the table on the wings flapping in the wind, would be able to return to their base with their crews and land safely. This, of course, was made possible by the great stability of design already referred to.

Pen of Winnipeg Birds is Now in the Lead

With the Manitoba egg laying contest at the Brandon experimental farm full over, a pen of single combs, Anconas, owned by W. H. Howe of Winnipeg, has jumped into the lead with a total of 582 eggs for ten pullets in two weeks.

The two pens of white Wyandottes which led through the winter months are in second and third place; G. F. Thompson, of Minnedosa, is owner of those in second place, with T. Lund, of Stonewall, has the third place so far with his pen.

The record for a single bird is held by a white Wyandotte, owned by Mr. Thompson. This hen has laid 120 eggs since the contest began, while the best weekly record for a pen is 59 eggs, by Mr. Symington's Rhode Island Reds.

Only One Way In Which to Remedy the Teacher Shortage

According to ex-Secretary Lane, of the Interior Department, last year in this country 143,000 public school teachers resigned their places. In Mr. Lane's words, the public schools, the "greatest bulwark against the spread of Bolshevism," is crumbling. The cause lies in the fact that teachers' salaries have not kept pace with the increased cost of living.

We cannot blame teachers for leaving their places. Their ability to procure the necessities of life at prevailing prices depends on getting a job paying considerably more than they can hope to get by sticking to school-teaching.

And this is not the worst. To the nature of things, as Mr. Lane said, it is the ablest and the best of the teachers who have gone out from the schools.

So far 1920 has only accounted the history of 1919. In Philadelphia, for instance, the situation is so bad, that in its public schools nearly 100 substitute teachers were employed. More than 5,000 children have been forced either to leave school or to receive only part-time instruction. In St.

Louis about 100 teachers have resigned to enter commercial life, and in Memphis certainly an equal number. New Orleans teachers received a 30 percent salary increase in February, and their resignations have fallen by different figures in San Francisco.

In the autumn of 1919 and the winter of 1920 in New York city, over a thousand teachers resigned. By the end of February some 3,000 classes were teacherless and 118,000 children were sent home. In the attempt to remedy the teacher shortage in both state and city, the Public Education Association appointed an influential committee of 100 eminent citizens to urge the passage of appropriate legislation. Two salary increase bills, one of $100,000,000 and the other of one of them would increase the high grade teachers about 20 percent and the lower grade about 40 percent. The other would provide no percentages but flat increases for all teachers. The minimum salary in the first bill is $1,000, and in the second $1,600. The Public Education Association is supporting the second bill—New York Outlook.

Latent Value of Our Straw Stacks

Increasing Values of Products Make Utilization of Western
Straw Feasible

Burned straw stacks are as familiar sight to the Western traveler. At present there is seemingly no other method of disposing of this by-product of the grain harvest.

Investigations as to the possibility of using the straw as a raw material in manufacture were undertaken some years ago by different interests, but the same conclusion was reached in each case. The cost of transporting the straw to a central point was more than the traffic would bear, the cost of manufacturing precluded competition in the open market, and, consequently, the use of the western straw in the transportation handicap is not a commercial proposition. This was especially the case in the manufacture of strawboard. In 1913 straw board prices ranged from $25 to $40 per ton. There was little demand for this product in the west, and, at the above price, it could not compete in the east. One leading eastern paper industry has, in the past few years, carefully considered the possibility of establishing a strawboard plant in the West. Recent statistics show that, under present conditions, with strawboard selling at $85 to $90 a ton, such a factory could be made a profitable industry.

The rising cost and necessity for conserving our pulpwood supply suggest that any material capable of being used as a substitute for wood in the development of strawboard is a short-fibered material and is unusable where growing and following quantities are required, but there are many uses for which it is entirely satisfactory. In 1918 Canada imported 4850 tons of strawboard, equal to 10 years ago, and producing 15 tons per year. Non-Canadians manufactured the strawboard we imported; we put them for nothing so we "burned" our own straw.

The Shelter Belt

III Effects of Wind on Crops, Livestock and Property, and Comfort

The value of the shelter afforded by trees on a farm is not fully appreciated. Too frequently the settlers in a wooded district are not satisfied until all the trees are removed, and only when the country becomes generally cleared and the soil loosened up by cultivation do they realize the ill effects of the wind on the crops, the stock and personal comfort.

Many who have made this mistake have later had to resort to planting and to get several years to replace the shelter which nature had provided. Belts of trees, judiciously placed, protect the nation from drifting sand, drying, and frost, and, in addition, they are not as attractive as those offered by the shops in the cities. The farmer is absolutely necessary to the production of food. The production of food is the basis of the shelter belt, without reducing its value as a wind-break.

Settlers, especially in a wooded portion of the prairie provinces and northern Ontario, should be strongly advised to leave strips of both at least along the western sides of their farms unless other locations are more suitable to the topography. Shelter belts should also be left around the buildings and gardens. A space of at least 200 feet should be left between the shelter belt and the buildings to prevent the drifting of snow around the buildings.

To Fight Hopper Pest

United Farmers' of Alberta Pay Special Attention to It

The United Farmers of Alberta are paying special attention to a question of the utmost importance to the province, which was reported last year in various parts of the province, and that organization has now made it a special feature of its campaign. E. H. Strickland, entomologist in charge of the Dominion Laboratory for the study of insects, has stated that the outbreak last year was confined to the area to the south and west of Lethbridge.

Mr. Strickland states that he is arranging with the provincial government for the purchase of material for carrying on an active campaign against the pest, he has a outbreak this spring.

Gardening For Schools

Plant Garden A Big Classroom For Outdoor Instruction

Gardening is systematically carried on by the public schools of many Canadian cities as part of the educational course. Dr. J. H. Putnam, senior inspector for Ottawa public schools, in the March number of the Agricultural Education, describes the system under which this work is done in Ottawa, Canada.

The school garden is referred to as a big class room for outdoor instruction in plants and plant life. It has many of the possibilities in miniature of an experimental farm. It has to do with the composition and fertility of soils, with drainage, with seed selection and with insect enemies of the plant life. It shows in a way that cannot be questioned the effect upon plants of too much or too little sun, of moisture and the bad effects of weeds and the necessity of giving them the best of the possibilities in miniature of an experimental farm. It shows in a way that cannot be questioned the effect upon plants of too much or too little sun, of moisture and the bad effects of weeds and the necessity of giving them the best of the possibilities in miniature of an experimental farm.

In addition to a central garden of one acre the Ottawa plan involves the organization of home garden clubs, each representing a school. In the three years, 1917 and 1918 and 1919, 1,300 pupils from second and third boards, received gardening instruction. The school board paid $40 to each teacher who managed a club garden. Every pupil member was required to keep an accurate record of the plants, cultivated and other activities. The aim is to grow everything possible from seeds. Cold frames are used to get a valuable addition to the equipment. In the central garden, instead of giving plots very small individual plots, a plot 25 by 43 feet for vegetables and 16 by 20 feet for flowers is given to each class. This garden is having a permanent perennial border established with will give a succession of bloom as well as an opportunity to show the children what they may have in their own home gardens.

Farm System Must be Brought to A
State of Efficiency

During the past month there has been a considerable number of articles in the press dealing with the reason given for disposing of livestock in the lack and high price of the product. The reason given is that the price of the product will go still higher or the quantity will decrease, and the farmer is not able to produce as much as he needs. Trace Convicts by Airplane

Air-trail convicts from Manitoba plans to follow he trail by air. The Manitoba Provincial Police, chief of the province, has announced that he will be possible this way to trace prisoners of Ontario who are not being served by the railways. Arrangements have been made for a local airplane company to hold a place at the disposal of the provincial police department should the need arise.

Aerial Transport

The Air Transport Company have secured sites at Truro, Winnipeg, and plans are being prepared for the construction of buildings. "Tenders are also being called for the erection of a hangar at Kenora, Ont. and St. John's, Nfld."

War-Stricken Europe Slowly Recovering from The Shock of War

"The gaping wounds of Europe are gradually healing and the San Remo conference marks a distinct stage in its convalescence," said Premier Lloyd George in closing his speech in the house of commons, detailing the results of what he described as "the most remarkable conference in every history of the world since the armistice."

The premier's statement was most optimistic, setting forth the claim that the conference had removed all misunderstanding between France and Germany, and declared that neither French annexation of German territory.

"For," added the premier, "we cannot see another Abzac-Lozanne." Mr. Lloyd George further indicated that if Germany brought definite proof that the German government was able and willing to pay, she would be treated with consideration. The premier dealt mainly with Germany, and referred to the German government's difficulties in getting its decrees obeyed, and emphasized that the Germans were "broken-backed people" whose actions were convulsive.

"We have information from British officers," he continued, "that there is a small number of German people who get only a 'third of needful food.' He expressed the conviction that the people of the world would be glad to see the results of what he described as "the most remarkable conference in every history of the world since the armistice."

The premier confirmed that the British mandate would include Mesopotamia and that the conference had undertaken the responsibility of maintaining the whole position, the premier said, would require reconsideration. He implied that the Germans should share in helping the Armenians to equip themselves for their difficult and perilous task.

Great Wealth of Northern Manitoba

Action To Be Taken in the Development of Large Pulp
Resources

Prof. R. C. Wallace, commissioner of Northern Manitoba, said that lumbering and pulpwood manufacturing in the north would be a valuable addition to the economy of the province.

Action is also expected to be taken in the development of the large pulp resources of the province. The logs, while cut in Saskatchewan territory, are floated down to the Pas de la Pêche and then to the coast.

Camps will probably be established, and water power projects located during the present year. As to mining operations, the commission spoke of the development work planned by the P. H. P. syndicate. Large numbers of prospectors are preparing to go into the mineral area as soon as conditions permit travel.

Leave Erin Alone To Solve Problems

New British Ambassador to U.S. Says
Englishmen Have Refused
To Quarrel

New York.—Declaring that in this generation there is no quarrel between England and Ireland, Sir Auckland Geddes, new British ambassador to the United States, asserted on his arrival in New York that the Irish in general should be allowed to grapple with their own political difficulties.

Asserting that it takes two to make a quarrel, and that the present generation of Englishmen and Irishmen refused to quarrel with Ireland, he said that when the new home rule bill becomes operative, it will be the duty of all British subjects who are not domiciled in Ireland to stand aside and leave those who live there to solve their problem.

"I venture to add," Sir Auckland continued, "that it will also be helpful to the many in all parts of the world who are not British subjects but are interested in Ireland, likewise stand aside and leave the Irish to grapple with their own political difficulties."

Sir Auckland also referred to the great mass of Englishmen and Irishmen who are interested in Ireland, likewise stand aside and leave the Irish to grapple with their own political difficulties.

Exchange and Production

Accurate Barometer Of International Trade Situation

The fluctuating rate of exchange, inconvenient as it may be, is on the whole, an accurate barometer of the international trade situation.

A dollar bill is not only a promise to pay and in valuations used as a standard. Gold, however, is not the only commodity with which it can be honored. It can be redeemed with wheat, pulp, paper, lumber, furs, coal, anything at all of which the country issuing the note produces a surplus for export. The way to right exchange is to speed up production, so that we can pay for all the goods imported. Retrenchment, that is, cutting down expenditures on unnecessary articles of luxury, will help.

Grazing Grounds for Reindeer

As a result of the recommendations made to the government by the commission headed by J. G. Rutherford, an order has been issued, setting aside three islands in the Northwest territories as grazing grounds for muskoxen and reindeer. The islands named, Southampton, Mansel and Goat's, are all favorably situated with plenty of food and suitable climatic conditions.

A STEAMER TRIP TO VICTORIA, B.C.

The Empress Hotel, Victoria, B.C.

Half way from Vancouver, on the seventy-mile trip to Victoria, a warning whistle sounds just before the steamer enters Plummer's Pass, a narrow gap between two islands which like a chain, fringes our Pacific seaboard. It is from here onwards that one sees the real beauty of the coastal belt of British Columbia, scenery of which one never tires. Here and there, on the chain of islands, the vivid green of alders or a greasy and prosperous farm porch out from the sombre forest of firs. The stout Mount Fisher, whose snow-capped cone stands a landmark for 30 miles or more on our part before plunges in the glittering sunlight above the rest of the cascades, and we see it all the way as it recedes far distant in the steamer's wake. To our south and east where the land and sea seem to meet is the last outline of the entrance of Puget Sound, whose shores stand Seattle and half a dozen American towns. To our south and west, some twenty miles away are the foothills of the mighty Olympics, whose lightning white peaks tower high above the sky.

The Straits, which still bear the name of Juan de Fuca, are full of traffic, side by side we pass, and dip our flat top, in passing, another of the Canadian Pacific Railway's painted steamers—a tiny tug, towing a big load of whole trees, comes into a little cove to shelter for the night. Another tug, flying the stars and stripes, with half a dozen men behind on its way from Victoria to Seaview, will pass us within 100 yards. North where the building of a railway to the Behring Sea is in progress. We have seen the mosquito fishing fleet at the Fraser's mouth, but every day there are groups of gasoline launches trolling for salmon. On our starboard side, the sea is from the hundred and our little islands shows up the shore line of the San Juan peninsula and the small town of Sidney. On and on past reefs and islets and the same beautiful scenery.

C. P. R. Steamer Princess Charlotte.

As the steamer rounds the fruit farms of Gordon Head, and nears the point that separates Cordova and Cadboro Bays, a natural park irregular but perfectly spared oaks, from the bottom of the island landscape. Oak Bay, South, Point Bay, West Bay, the last resting place of the "old times", are passed in turn, each with its own charm, delightful houses in white and red, in light and tan, and a variety of other hues, stand out from the remnant of the forest, gardens, many a blade of brilliance, green lawns grift with flowering shrubs and, in the background, stately mansions, seemingly fairy palaces, sleep in a maze of marvellous loveliness, recall the memory of a picture spring from the brain of some old master. Such is one's first impression of the "City of Homes", the "City of Great Seas", the city that knows no winter and whose summers are cooler than our own.

The point that forms the entrance of the inner harbour is passed, and the steam saltn and grows. The stately Parliament Building in grey stone, their broken lines to give the impression of their two towers and quiescent copper cupolas, their great dome crowned by Vancouver's statue, and the bold Norman entrance arch above the facade of stripes, form a fitting setting in a front of grass and flowers, and in the distance, beyond the scene of the distant Olympics.

The opening weeks of 1902 found him a second lieutenant of the fourth regiment of Austrian Dragoon. In 1904 he became "officer-orderly" or aide-de-camp to Louis de Bourbon, a French prince of the blood, who, before the war, was attached to the Austrian army traditionally. In 1905 von Stroheim was ordered to the war college. In the annexation of Bosnia in 1908 he was wounded in action with his troops and incapacitated. He was transferred to the Imperial Palace Guard and decorated. In 1909 he came to America and was the acknowledged "catch" of the season in the estimation of New York dappers.

From his arrival in America Stroheim's fortunes fell. In his own words he has been everything except a bartender or a waiter. At one time he sold fly-paper, acted as overseer on a big California estate, was a boatman at Lake Tahoe, put over a sketch on the Orpheum circuit and fled heading into the realm of motion pictures.

From then his fortune ascended with his ability to depict the foreign drama for the screen. He was a very successful director and as a technical director for Griffith, Fairbanks, Sir Herbert Tree, Norma Talmadge and other players.

His first big featured role was as the brutal Hun officer in the greatest of the war plays of the screen, "The Heart of Humanity."

Count von Stroheim's latest achievement was "Blind Husbands," a Universal photodrama in which he may be seen as the star at the Rex Theater on next Friday and Saturday.

The School Fair committee met at the Agricultural College on Saturday last and organized for the coming season. Mr. Law was elected chairman and Mr. Lonsberry secretary. A splendid prize list is being prepared and every effort is to be made to make the coming fair a record one. This year the children of the town public school are to be allowed to compete for the prizes which will doubtless be appreciated by the citizens of Claresholm. The Fair will be held in September.

Mr. Thomas who preached in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches last Sunday gave his audience some new thoughts on the prohibition question. He took the stand that the drink traffic affected the home life of everyone and consequently was a menace to the well being of the nation. The facts and figures presented were very convincing and there were few present who if they had the chance would permit the liquor business to open its bars again. Mr. Thomas was confident that in the coming week the liquor traffic would receive its knock-out blow.
